Child's ID Kit.

The CompUSA staff took the pictures for the IDs and Crime Watch workers did the thumbprints. The ID Kit also has sections to allow the parents to add medical, dental, and DNA information for the child.

Eduardo Barranco, the Crime Watch Merchant Coordinator, who organized this event, greeted customers and acquainted the Pembroke Pines residents with our very worthwhile crime prevention

Recently Crime Watch of Pembroke Pines and CompUSA teamed up to offer all young visitors to the store a free program. He handed out brochures on how to prevent home burglaries and auto thefts.

Joining the activities was McGruff the Crime Dog. Both young and old hugged McGruff and posed for pictures.

CompUSA helpers were Suzanne Parent of the Commercial Division, her daughter, Lisa Campanelli, and Matt Dozoie.

Two Crime Watch Board members also lent a hand: Rudy Tamayo, President and Larry Landress, Director.

The Director of Crime Watch, Lou Manfra, said,

“This event was a big success and we hope to do more like this throughout the city.”
